Let life imitate art.

Let life imitate art!

Starting in 2011, we are proud to announce the beginning of BIG ART for little minds workshops. Children ages 5-15 will be able to find their creative spark with 3 unique art courses. Whether it's art, music, or dance, children will have a place where they are free to explore, grow and imagine. We are excited as this is a giant step towards developing all the curriculums that will become a key part of what our first BIG ART for little minds creative educational centre will teach.

Why are these workshops so unique?

1. Our most valuable asset comes from our educators. We only hire some of the most promising and inspiring young Canadian artists. This allows the bond between teacher and student to be stronger and allow children to look up to someone who they have an easier time relating with.
2. Our courses are financially friendly. A lot of families do not have the disposable income to send their children to a proper arts program. We want everyone to have a fair chance at the arts and ultimately at finding themselves. For a minimal fee, a child can experience a world that would normally not exist otherwise.
3. The learning is not limited to just inside the workshops. All children will have the opportunity to display their creations during performances and exhibitions in craft specific environments. This allows them to fully understand what it feels like to have their art part of the culture.

You are invited to join us on our journey and capture BIG ART for little minds 3rd Annual Production Gala. This evening full of breathtaking performances and delicious dinner courses raises money for these stand alone workshops and for the BIG ART for little minds creative educational centre.

Along with our invitation you will receive:

BIG ART believes in the benefits of art education in developing children and would like to spread our message to touch as many people as we can. With your help our dreams can become a reality.
